EXTRACTS FROM THE JOURNAL OF CHARLES CLINTON, KEPT DURING THE VOYAGE FROM IRELAND TO PENNSYLVANIA, 1729.

CONTRIBUTED BY CHARLES H. BROWNING.

[In the New York State Library at Albany will be found a few leaves of the journal of Charles Clinton, kept during his voyage on the ship "George and Ann," bound from Ireland to Pennsylvania, May 9 to October 4, 1729. Some terribly contagious disease must have broken out on the ship and become epidemic, for he records one hundred deaths of men, women, and children as having occurred in about four months at sea. The distress of these Pennsylvania emigrants can hardly be imagined. However grewsome reading the death-list is, it may be genealogically useful.]
